Sons of local runners star at sectionals

Donny Glavin

VICTOR – Like father, like son.

Two of the most prominent names in Rochester running the last 20 years were dominant at the Section V cross country championships Saturday.

Glavin, this time son Donny of McQuaid, and Bathgate, this time son Dawson of East Rochester, turned in stirring performances to win their classes and make their dads proud.

"I think about him most every step of the way," Donny said of his late father, Pete, who was a 14:14-minute 5K-er in college at Rutgers and later a race club founder and race director. He died five years ago of brain cancer at age 48.

"Just as I was finishing today," Donny said, "I looked up to the sky and held up a No. 1 for him. I was in sixth grade when he died, so I don't remember any race advice he'd give, but I believe he'd say 'keep working hard and the results will follow.'"

Donny's 15-minute, 57-second finish in Class A led McQuaid to a successful defense of its sectional title and was almost a minute faster than Fairport's No. 1, Matt Orcutt (16:51) on the redesigned double-loop 3.1-mile course at Victor High School.

"You made it look so easy," McQuaid coach Todd Stewart said to Donny. Deceptively so.

"It was a tough race," Donny said. "The team title was really close (44 to Fairport's 53), so everybody had to push hard."

He pointed to junior Joe Doerr, who was fifth, as McQuaid's real MVP of the day, just like he was a year ago.

"I was probably a couple dozen back at the start," Doerr said. "I made up a lot of ground, especially in the woods in the back section."

Dawson won by more than a minute in Class DD (16:30 to 17:45), is undefeated heading to states, but just like a coach and veteran runner, his dad, ER head coach Jim Bathgate, said there's still room for improvement.

"About a 5:08 first mile," Jim said. "That's too slow. But he hasn't had anybody to race with yet."

Dawson thought his start was too fast, though he didn't have any familiarity with the course.

"We didn't do the invitational here in September," Dawson said. "But that's OK. I like being surprised, then I don't over-analyze things."

The Pittsford Mendon boys juggernaut was no surprise with sophomore

Nathan Lawler leading all the way to Mendon's fourth straight title. Lawler had the other sub-16 of the day for the state's top-ranked B team, a 15:59.2.

Still, he said "I took it out too hard . . . got caught up in the adrenaline . . . and then had to struggle in the third mile. I was just trying to hold on."

But he finished with a 20-second cushion on teammate Isaac Goodman.

Honeoye Falls-Lima finally caught up with Mendon's girls, making a return trip to states for the first time in four years, and 17th time overall under coach Bernie Gardner. HF-L's Sydney McDaniel and Payton Reed went 3-4 as HF-L scored 49 to Mendon's 71.

Other highlights:

» Rush-Henrietta junior Sammy Watson fought off a stomach ache most of the way but still cruised to win Class A by 12 seconds over Churchville-Chili's Anna Kostarellis. They ran side-by-side for awhile, and occasionally touched shoes, saying "sorry," Watson said.

» Harley-Allendale Columbia junior Eileen Reinhardt was the Class D champion, running a 20:29 in the combined DD/D race.

» Webster Thomas' Amanda Vestri, Ellie Songer and Claire Ashton went 3-5-6 to help defend their team title.

Bathgate, Mendon win titles

JIM CASTOR

WOODBURY, N.Y. – His runner dad was beaming, his runner mom was jokingly jealous, and Dawson Bathgate was living it up as the one with the fastest wheels in the family Saturday morning in the windy foothills of Orange County.

"I never did this in high school," said Christina Bathgate, who as Christina Roller started at Skaneateles High School in the early '90s with her future husband. "Never came close."

"Neither did I," said Jim Bathgate, who'd just coached his son to East Rochester's first state championship since Drew Whitbeck raced to a two-peat in 2002. "Seventeen years of coaching for me, and we finally have one. He's blown away all the top times in the family now, for both of us."

Along with a Pittsford Mendon boys three-peat in Class B, the two east-side schools kept alive a Section V streak of individual and/or state titles dating back to 1998 – 18 years and counting.

"Loving it. It's awesome," Bathgate said, after he led most of the way in the Class D race at the state cross country championships on the sprawling Monroe-Woodbury High School campus. "And it's so awesome to have Alex right behind me."

Dawson Bathgate

Wheatland-Chili's Alex Hogue was 11 seconds back, and when he crossed the line in 16 minutes, 40 seconds, the two rushed into a crushing embrace.

"I told him at the start," Bathgate said, "we're going to finish 1-2."

Hogue laughed at that, agreeing, but admitting that "I'm thinking it would be ME one and Dawson two! I was racing to win. The last bit I was holding on for dear life."

"I really didn't know Dawson until this weekend, but we've gotten to be really good friends. I'm so happy for him."

Both agreed that the hilly 3.1-mile course was the most challenging they'd ever faced. It took the measure of many top runners, both boys and girls, with tightly grouped and steep inclines.

"So hilly. So hard," Bathgate said. "I train on some decent hills in my neighborhood, but nothing like this." He says he does figure-eights in his Sherwood neighborhood just across Fairport Road from his high school.

Section IV's Maine-Endwell threw a solid punch at Mendon, but coach Chris Compson's Vikings turned back the challenge 43-54 to become only the 15th team in state history to win three or more titles, and just third in Section V, with Greece Arcadia and McQuaid.

Once again, sophomore Nathan Lawler led the way, in second (16:03.3) but he was trailed this week by Henry Burton, 14th; Isaac Goodman, 16th; Luke Robbins, 22nd and Griffin Hess, 25th.

"This course delivers a lot of body blows," Compson said. "The hills just keep right on coming. It plays right into our team strength-our depth."

"At the end of the day, it's an accurate reflection of the best teams and best individuals."

"Nathan was in the top five at the three-quarter mile mark. That was the plan. We figured to defeat the dragon, chop off his head. He had plenty of the hills."

Other highlights:

» Donny Glavin was one of nine boys to break the two-year-old course's 16:10.5 record, with a 16:01.7 for third in Class A, but his teammates faltered and the Knights were eighth of nine teams. Fairport sophomore Majd Rouhana was a solid 30th.

» Junior Sammy Watson of Rush-Henrietta struggled with the hills and was Section V's top finisher in girls A at 34th, while the latest Fayetteville-Manlius phenom, Claire Walters, upset nationally-ranked Jessica Lawson of Corning and became the first 8th-grader in history to win the top girls class. Girls began competing at the state level in 1977.

» Canandaigua freshman Clancy Rheude was 14th to lead area runners in girls B. Honeoye Falls-Lima's Sydney McDaniel also earned all-state honors (top 20) at 17th as her team, which was sixth, was making its 17th appearance since 1995.

» Livonia sophomore Hayleigh Palotti was third in class C, and almost caught East Aurora's No. 2 Fiona Danieau.
