Marathon meet turns pole vault into nightmare

By John Moriello

Democrat and Chronicle

The marathon has arrived on the area indoor track scene. Not as an event in meets, but rather as a way of life.

The most recent Rochester Winter Track League meet began Friday at about 6 p.m. It ended for three pole vaulters at a not-so-early time — 2 a.m. — Saturday.

"I apologized to the three of them," said Dave Hennessey, a coach at Penfield and an official of the league. "There's no way they should have had to vault at that time."

"I got home at 2:30 and had to be up by 8:30, and people have to ask why I'm a little perturbed? I know some others are upset, too."

The meet was at the University of Rochester fieldhouse, where legend has it that runners sometimes enter the tunnel portion of the four-lane track but never come out alive.

Be that as it may, you could argue that some people didn't come out of the pole vault awake. Craig Schaeffer of Fairport won with a height of 13 feet, 6 inches. Jon Schwabb of Aquinas was second and Dave Fladd of Victor third.

Because indoor track has become so big in Section 5 (about 26 schools compete regularly), some of this season's meets have been broken into two parts: varsity "A" and varsity "B"/modified.

The latter group competed Saturday at Webster Junior High School. It was the first weekend the groups were divided. Hennessey said that's what the coaches said they wanted, but now they aren't following their own recommendations.

"The culprit (Friday) was that it was supposed to be a varsity-only meet," Hennessey said. "Some schools brought non-varsity athletes, especially the boys and especially in the long jump and triple jump ... You can sometimes justify one kid, but there were several who didn't belong there."

"I have seven pole vaulters and I was going to enter three. When I saw the starting height (9-6) I cut it back to just one."

There was no pole vaulting at the Saturday meet, so the others lost a chance to participate.

Friday's running events on the track were over by about 11:30, but the small U of R infield puts a premium on space.

The long jump and triple jump use the same pit, and both use the pole vaulters' runway. The shot put, 45-meter dash and high jump take place in another area.

"It's more of a logistics problem," Brighton Coach Dave McLaughlin said last night. "Indoor track is a growing sport. There are about 28 schools with teams and a lot of them get good turn-outs for the sport."

"You can only run four kids at a time in the 45-meter dash," McLaughlin said. "If you have 20 heats, and that's how many there were, it takes over an hour."

Friday's meet had nearly 500 participants. The "B"/modified meet drew about 200 more.

Another factor Friday was a high number of long jumpers (36) and triple jumpers (35). McLaughlin and Spencerport Coach Doug Schneider both mentioned the possibility of setting minimum standards.

Meet officials have a while to work out the bugs. Next week's meet for area teams is an invitational at Buffalo State Saturday morning and afternoon. There is another Friday night meet at the U of R six days later.

Indoor track

Mike Mincey of Pittsford tied the Section 5 indoor track record in the 45-yard dash (:5.4) and Rachel Hosmer of Brighton passed eighth-grader Deresa Walters of Penfield on the last lap to win the 1,000-meter run in the Rochester Winter Track League meet held Friday night and early yesterday morning at the University of Rochester. The meet ended at 2 a.m. when Craig Schaeffer of Fairport won the pole vault over 21 others by clearing the bar at 13 feet, 6 inches. Jon Schwab of Aquinas was second at 13-0 and Victor's Dave Fladd third at 13-0, but with more misses. The event started at 11 p.m. and there were 11 rounds of height changes, starting at 9-6.

Following record performances in Saturday's Dutchmen Games, athletes such as hurdler Allison Goodman of Greenwich, sprinter Gary Ramsay of Albany and sophomore distance runner Todd Orvis of Canastota are beginning to envision themselves as state champions.

The State Intersectional Track and Field Championships are less than one month away, and a solid all-around performance against a good cross-section of upstate indoor track talent at Union's Memorial Field House gave Section II more reason to be optimistic.

Area athletes accounted for six of the nine meet record performances and many of the runner-ups notched personal bests while battling some of the top names in the state. Shaker junior Ruth Feldblum, for example, fell an inch and a half short of Canastota's Valerie Coleman in the triple jump, but still set a Section II record of 36-2½.

Christian Brothers Academy won the boys' team championship by scoring 45 points to fast-starting Burnt Hills' 37, even though the Brothers had to "settle" for second and third places in their bread and butter event, the shot put.

But that's because Saturday's weight competition was exceptional, with the top five finishers all breaking 50 feet. Rome Free Academy's Tom Myslinski, the state outdoor discus champion last spring, set the tone for his victory by getting off a record-breaking 58-3¼ on his first attempt, seemingly enough to shatter the confidence of his rivals.

Matt Kielew of CBA bounced back admirably with a personal best of 57-10½ and teammate Steve Dering, troubled by four fouls in six throws, took third at 53-1¼. But there was no touching Myslinski, whose consistent series was 58-3¼, 58-2½ and 58-1¼ in the trials and foul, 57-8½ and the record toss of 59-5½ in the finals.

"I'm very pleased with my series. There was good competition today," said Myslinski, a football center who's headed to Tennessee on a full scholarship. "It's been a tough time for me. I broke my leg in the first football game and started indoor track late. I feel like I'm just starting to get going."

Canastota, which lost the girls' championship to Canastota by only half a point last year, came back to win the trophy this time, but it was another tight battle. It took most of the meet for the Red Raiders to recover from a loss to Bethlehem in the two mile relay, but they finally outlasted the Eagles, 55-52.

The standout for Canastota was again Patty Wiegand, who won the 1,000 for the third straight year, bettering the meet record each time out. Winning by nearly nine seconds, Wiegand clocked 2:56.9 after recording a 2:16 anchor leg in the two mile relay and a 4:43.6 success in the 1,500.

"I'm really pleased with the way she ran today," said Canastota Coach Andy Pino. "She needed it after (a disappointing performance at) Millrose. This restored her confidence." Wiegand is running in the Olympic Invitational High School 1,000 Saturday at the Meadowlands.

Goodman, a Greenwich senior who is feeling fit for first time since she badly injured her knee in the outdoor state meet as a freshman, looked impressive over the hurdles Saturday, romping to a 7.7-second victory in the semifinals and then equalling the meet record of 7.6 in the finals. A co-holder of that standard, Rhonda Phillips of Mont Pleasant, went on to land a state indoor hurdle title.

"It's about time. Nothing had been going right," said Goodman, who had a long and frustrating road back from her injury. "My start wasn't too good today, so I can't wait until I put it all together."

Goodman was a convincing winner over Sidney's Dawn Von Ahn and Bethlehem's Anne Carey, who is still hindered by the foot injury which forced her to miss most of the last indoor season. Carey, who set the meet 600 record as a sophomore, was unable to catch wire-to-wire winner Joan Lipscomb (1:39.2) of Holy Names, who had moved up from the 300.

Ramsay appeared to have a challenging 300 meter foe in Rome Free Academy's Steve Cardwell, who set a state sophomore class record in the intermediate hurdles last spring and was photoed by Schenectady's Lenny Griffin in the 50 meter barriers Saturday. Furthermore, Ramsay started in the outside lane, where he was unable to see the rest of the field.

"I figured I would get the lead and try to hold him off," recalled Ramsay of his strategy. "I figured he was going to come right up on me when I slowed down on the last turn."

But there was no need for concern, as Ramsay prevailed by more than a second in 36.2 and won back the meet record he had set as a sophomore, but then lost to teammate Dave Crenshaw last year. Ramsay also triumphed in the 45-meter dash, but said that event is just to "loosen up my legs" for the 300.

"I think I can get the state (300) title," said Ramsay, who's grown taller and stronger each year. "If I run some more 600s to get ready, I'll be all right."

both runners misjudged the finish line and stopped early, resulting in times of 1:24.8 for Thomas and 1:25.0 for Shea. It was the first ever 600 for Thomas, a newcomer to indoor track who "thought there was two laps to go" when the whistle sounded for the final lap.

Shea had been scheduled to come back in the 1,000 against another Ballston Spa ace, Mark Lavery, but chose to scratch. That left Lavery without competition, and after a slow early pace, he kicked home with a 58-second last quarter and overall time of 2:37.1. Both Lavery and Thomas are running in the Olympic Invitational 1,000 Saturday.

The long jump was staged for the first time in the Dutchmen Games and proved to be a bonanza for two area jumpers. Duaneburg's Andy Hoffmann, with a heel injury behind him, popped a 22-½ to win the boys' competition of Burnt Hills' Peter Beatty, who cleared 21-10¼. Sophomore Aleta Byers was on target for Colton, getting off five jumps of 16-8 or better, including her record effort of 17-3¼.

Feldblum, who also anchored Shaker to a win in the girls' mile relay, said she finally got over a major mental block — the fear of fouling — in the triple jump. She fouled out of the Sectionals and State Qualifier last spring and Engineer Games this winter, but got on track with a 34-1 the previous week and had four jumps over 35 feet Saturday.

"I mentally out myself together. I just sat down beforehand and pictured it all in my head," said Feldblum. "My goal before I graduate (next year) is 38 feet, indoor or outdoors."

Daresa Walters, the petite eighth-grade distance phenom from Penfield, ran away with the 3,000 for the second straight year, lapping all but three runners with a time of 10:24.3. Chrissy Smith of Guiderland ran third in 10:38.3, doubling off a 4:53.3 in the 1,500. Duaneburg's Vicki Dorety was second in that 1,500 behind Wiegand in 4:52.5.

Evans, Studymine dash to titles

Sec. 5 girls 5th; Izzo second in racewalk

Democrat and Chronicle

ITHACA — Irene Evans of East won the girls' 300-meter dash and Brian Studymine of Franklin won the boys' 600 in the New York State Indoor track and field championships yesterday at Cornell University.

Evans, seeded seventh, won in 40.68 seconds. She also triumphed in trial heats and semifinals. Evans also combined with teammates Charlotte Nesmith, Yauneek Jackson and Pam McIntyre to finish fourth in the 400 relay (1:50.69).

That performance, along with strong finishes in field events and the racewalk, helped Section 5's girls finish fifth in team scoring with 47 points. The Public School Athletic League of New York won girls' scoring with 88 points and Section Three (Syracuse) finished second with 75.

Andie Kopf of Spencerport finished third in the triple jump (36 feet, 8 3/4 inches) and long jump (18-1). Kopf was seeded first in the triple jump and fourth in the long jump.

Christy Izzo of Brockport finished second in the 1,500 racewalk (7:54.5) and Lynette Dzierzanowski of Alexander was third (7:58.1). Izzo was seeded fifth and Dzierzanowski third. Hope Hallock of Port Washington, Section Eight (Nassau County), won in 7:33.3.

Eighth-grader Deresa Walters of Penfield finished third in the 3,000 (10:09.73), with Kim Trawitz of Fairport ninth (10:34).

Allison Smith of Clarence set national junior class and state records in the high jump (6-1). Her height also was the third best ever nationally in high school girls' indoor track.

Studymine led from the start in the boys' 600 and won in a Section Five record 1:21.6. He also joined teammates Vernon Hall, Sherman Prior and his brother, Alphonse Studymine, to finish fifth in the 1,600 relay (3:40.46).

Section Five finished eighth in the boys' team scoring with 28 points. Section One (Westchester County) won with 102 points and Section Eight was second with 83.

In addition to Studymine winning, Section Five pole vaulters turned in strong performances. Craig Schaefer of Fairport was second and Dave Fladd of Victor third, both in 14-3. Stu Ackerman of Monroe-Woodbury, Section Nine (Orange County) also cleared 14-3, but had only one miss at that height. Schaefer had two misses and Fladd three.

Section Five was seeded ninth in the intersectional medley relay and finished fifth. Scott Wawrzyniek of Alexander ran an anchor leg in 4:30.9 at 1,600 meters.

Penfield's 3,200 relay team of Dave Lindsay, Eric Blumenau, Nathan Sacco and Steve Nazarian finished ninth in 8:31.9. Bishop Loughlin of the Catholic High School Athletic Association finished first in 7:53.66, a state record.
